THE VALLEY BOOM.

here are shell-bound and are for the most part busier about other things than booms. But the fact remains that even Richmond is get-ting to be convinced that there is some prin-ciple at work which forces forward this city at a faster rate than the normal speed.

The growth of Richmond is proving a liberal education of her people. It is ena-bling them to take hold of industrial advance-ment more quickly than they have been ac-customed to. Consequently, it is not so hard now to tell them confidently of what is going on in the new towns. on in the new towns,

STAUNTON'S PROSPECTS.

But, for that matter, Staunton is no new

But, for that matter, Staunton is no new town. It is, you know, some 150 years old, and has been the jobbing centre of Augusta county since its foundation. It is, in my opinion, the shinyest town in Virginia west of the Blue Ridge, Roanoke not excepted.

The reason why these people about here do not take in the industrial movement West is because they are different people from the Valley people. You are English here and slow to take on new things. The Valley folks are Yankees in your own midst—thrifty with money in their pockets—a rich country and cash-paying all the way through.

I have watched the growth among these people for the last ten months, and do not hesitate to say that from my observation of the California beom the growth is healthy and strong. In Southern California there was nothing under ground except imaginary gold, and nothing above ground except during the time of the annual rains. In the fall of the year in the Valley corn shocks stand thick as the lines of battle twenty-five years ago. There is back grounter. of battle twenty-five years ago. There is

As to the underground feature, men from the United States over come and say that the iron will make another Pennsylvania in Virginia. This fact I may emphasize by reference to Iron Gate, backed by strong, conservative Richmond men.

THE VIEGINIA BOOM. There is no analogy between the Virginia boom and any other that has taken place in this country, except the one in Pennsylvania years ago. This fact is well recognized by Pennsylvanians themselves, who are packing hemselves in Staunton and vicinity

The Pennsylvanians are pioneers, but farseeing pioneers—life pioneers—and their dicta are generally based upon the inherited habit of experiment with mineral country. They say Virginia is all right in her new

NO LOT-SELLING YEAR. They are in these new towns with their money and homes. But this is not going to be a lot-selling year. It is a building year. I was speaking of Staunton. She, for example, is going to have a lot sale on the 2d and 3d of June, but no high prices will be allowed. Mr. M. Erskine Miller, the president, is a very conservative man and will manage the whole sale in a way that is consonant with the dignity of that solid city.

Salem, Buena Vista, Glasgow, Basic City, Shenandosh, Clifton Forge, Covington—all are going to surprise these people some morning, but Staunton will hold her own throughout the ups and downs of all. She cannot go back. A town of 12,000 inhabitants with $1,500,000 banking capital, agricultural land as rich as any in the world, money among the farmers, minerals and coal in abundance, railroad facilities of the best, a finished civilization and all the conveniences of a complete city, an outlying suburb that welcomes homes, steady building, Staunton will go forward and take a surprising place among Virginia towns under the hand of President Miller. MR. MILLER.

Just a word about Mr. Miller, a prince of men in character, appearance and prominence; he is self-made, rich and a leader in the best sense. He has organized his work during a whole year, and has not asked for public confidence until he has secured his plants. They are there now, and I venture to say that those who may come up on the 2d and 8d of June next will find a new country opened to them, provided they have not seen the Valley for the past year. But the whole matter is a long story—a story full of hope, however.

the whole matter is a long story—a story full of hope, however.

One of the greatest levers, by the way, in this movement is the press of Richmond, especially Time Times, which is read far and wide in the Valley. Its liberality and growth have impressed the people, and everybody has a good word far it.

SUMMER GIRLS AT THE WHITE.

The Time Fast Approaching For Them To Congregate.

DULLNESS IN SOCIAL LIFE JUST NOW.

Mrs. Haxall's Tea Last Thursday-Mr. Gunn to be Married-Card Party-Rosebud Luncheon.

The mellifluous laughter of the chic and pensive little individual that is often called a society girl will soon be heard resounding among the trees and hills of the White Sulphur, for the statement that many of Richmond's fair maidens are to spend the summer North and give the White the "goby" is without foundation.

by" is without foundation.

The Richmond girl is nothing if not a diplomat, hence she readily sees that unless she has extraordinary beauty or a slipperbagful of introductions her charms are not exactly a "go" at Bar Harbor or Narragansett Pier. It is true that one or two girls have gone to those places and been acknowledged belies, but both of these were gifted with unusual beauty. Several more of this city's young ladies might do the same thing, but then they mightn't so the pensive little maid makes up her mind it is better to go to the White and be a princess than go North and be a wall-flower.

Then, too, even if she has beauty a Virginia girl does not always like the men she meets North. They dress, dance and are perfectly free as a usual thing with their funds, but they have not the knack of paying those little attentions to women that are one of the terror with in the Eighmond man's raske. strong points in the Richmond man's make-

These facts taken into consideration, the Richmond society girl packs her trunk, sits on top of it, swings her little feet to and fro and finally yells down stairs to papa to buy the ticket for White Sulpher.

And in just about a month such scenes will occur daily in Franklin-street houses. All the girls will go and the maiden who ventures North will be looked upon as being a heroine worthy to be put in an erotic story by an erotic author. The fact that Richmond will be largely rep-

The fact that Richmond will be largely represented at the White is based on a concensus of opinions from people who are presumed to know. They say so, and being in a better position to know than I am, I am forced to believe that what they say is true.

Richmond social life is excessively dull now and this dullness will continue until the exodus for the hot season begins. Instead of giving and attending teas, receptions and other functions, the girls are racking their brains as to what to wear and how to wear it, and the men are going into mathematical calculations as to how long their finances will allow them to remain at the summer resorts.

Mrs. Philip Haxall gave a charming tea on last Thursday evening and the event was said to be by many the most enjoyable of the series. A large number of ladies were present and the gowns worn showed many new spring effects.

Invitations have been issued to the wedding reception of Miss Elizabeth Anne Miller and Mr. Eugene Z. Gunn at Williamsport, Pa., on Wednesday evening, Jane 3d. The couple will be matried at 5 o'clock on that evening. Mr. Gunn is well known in Richmond, and is of the firm of E. G. Gunn & Brother. At the nuptials Mr. Grayson Burress, of Bristol, formerly of Richmond, will be best man, and Mr. John Pickett, of Norfolk, will also be an attendant. Mr. Frederick Gunn, of this city, and the groom's father, from Baltimore, will attend the marriage, and after the bridal tour Mr. and Mrs. Gunn will stop for a short time Mr. and Mrs. Gunn will stop for a short time at the Exchange.
